

Kivati Software Leads Next Generation SharePoint Application Management and Automation

Subsidiary of Resolute Unveils New Solution to Reduce Cost, Time and Risk for Composite Application Development and Deployment

BELLEVUE, Wash. – May 20, 2008 – Resolute Solutions Corporation, a leading business and technology consulting firm, today announced the launch of its new subsidiary, Kivati Software. Its mission is to provide engineering, deployment and management solutions for applications built on the Microsoft® .NET platform. In alignment with Kivati Software’s mission, the company unveiled its first product offering, Kivati Studio, an innovative solution that can help solve application management challenges by simplifying the development, deployment and management of composite applications on the Microsoft Office SharePoint Server 2007 platform.

Kivati Studio automates application development by providing powerful composite application scripted deployment tools for system integrators, solution architects, developers and IT administrators. Kivati Studio is a powerful build tool for effective management and testing of composite applications built on the Microsoft Office SharePoint 2007 platform.

“I’ve been working with SharePoint for more than six years,” said Robert Smith, senior product and account manager at Blue Rooster Marketing. “Our clients look to us to deploy SharePoint with their existing business processes and architect a solution that works for them. Kivati Studio has allowed us to automate data exporting as well as replicating content very rapidly. What took two hours before is now being accomplished in ten minutes, allowing us to save time, reduce costs and increase productivity.”

Kivati Studio focuses on the needs of developers and systems integrators who are increasingly faced with ever more complex, overwhelming and time-consuming composite application deployment. Kivati Studio is quickly gaining market favor because it offers a scripted deployment solution to automate application development.

“The model for application development and deployment is changing,” said John Fallou, CEO of Resolute. “Application integration across the organization has created manageability issues. In response, we created Kivati Studio to answer their challenges.”

Kivati Studio:

- Decreases the cost of application management with scripted deployment tools that can eliminate manual processes and expedite project schedules
- Reduces the time required for solution management by enabling repeatable deployment and automation of composite applications built on the Microsoft Office SharePoint Server 2007 platform
- Improves the quality of your composite applications with tested and repeatable processes that provide consistency in deployed applications and enable source control tools

- Scale applications easily across multiple environments and locations
- Expands IT resources with a solution that simplifies application deployment and management—freeing up more valuable resources for strategic projects

"Our research has shown that SharePoint deployments are growing in size and scope," said Kathleen Quirk, research manager in IDC's enterprise mashups and portal strategies program. "As organizations take advantage of the SharePoint platform to address their operational needs, there is an increasing demand for tools that streamline the process of developing, deploying, and managing SharePoint applications."

Kivati Studio is available for direct download at an initial price of $595.00 or for a free seven day trial at the Kivati Software Web site at www.kivati.com. This special offer expires June 30, 2008 after which Kivati Studio will sell for $995.00.
